BRYCE L. SPANGLER,

Plaintiff,

vs.

CHARLIE WEND, et. al.,

Defendants.

NO. C12-1196-RAJ-JPD

DECLARATION OF RON COAKLEY IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

RON COAKLEY declares:

I am over the age of 18 years and competent to testify regarding the matters asserted herein. I work for the Skagit County Sheriff as a sergeant at the Skagit County Jail. I have worked at the Skagit County Jail as a corrections officer for 24 years. Before that, I was a military policeman for six years and a police officer in Wyoming for two years. I have completed Washington's Basic Corrections Officer course and have completed more than a thousand hours of additional corrections officer training including supervisory and management training. My training has included courses and training sessions on identifying and preventing suicide risks among inmates. One of my duties involves courtroom security and the transport of inmates to and from court. This allows for contact with most pretrial inmates on a frequent basis. I am familiar with jail procedures, the physical layout of the jail and with the computer programs and forms used to maintain inmate records.

ORIGINAL

1 I make the following declaration based upon my personal knowledge and the Jail Log,
2 Doc. 20-1, which I routinely review nearly every workday to apprise myself of conditions and 3 events in the jail:

4 The Jail Log is an electronic data base that jail deputies and sergeants, jail staff, can use
5 to enter information about events in the jail. Most commonly this is used to report violations of 6 jail rules, discipline, and unusual events. It is also used to record housing and admissions and 7 releases from jail custody. Doc. 20-1 is the Jail Log for Inmate Spangler's stay in the county 8 jail.

9 Other records are used to report routine observations and events associated with the use 10 of the gray cells, which are single use cells located in the booking area that are used for 11 emergency detentions, safety reasons, temporary holding cells for new arrivals awaiting 12 booking, and suicidal inmates. A Skagit County Jail Separation Log is used to record
13 handwritten notes about medical, meals, and movement to and from the gray cell. In addition
14 to the Jail Separation Log, limited information regarding use of the gray cells may be entered 15 into a separate database. Primarily, this database is used to record observations of an inmate 16 being held in a gray cell during the course of the day. This database also allows for entry of 17 events such movement to the shower, bathroom, court, etc.; however, because different persons 18 may use one method to record information and not the other, both the electronic and written 19 records need to be reviewed to get a complete picture of an inmate's stay in a gray cell.

20 The jail classifies inmates at booking to avoid housing antagonistic inmates together
21 and to protect those who may become victims in general population. The classification system 22 is not as refined as is available in the state's prison system, but it allows jail staff to ensure that 23 rival gang members are not housed together, that child sex offenders who would be susceptible 24 to abuse are not housed in general population, and to identify inmates suffering from mental 25 issues or who would present a danger to others so that they can be housed in Isolation or C-26

1 pod. Also, if an inmate who is initially housed in general population proves to be a threat to 2 other inmates, he can be housed in C-pod until the risk is reduced.

3 The jail does not, for example, routinely house convicted murderers. Inmates who are 4 sentenced to more than a year in jail are sent to prison. However, classification does not mean 5 that a person charged with a non-violent crime such as driving while under the influence will 6 never be housed with a person charged with murder or assault. However, the classification
7 effort has generally been successful at avoiding inmate disturbances. Also, the security and 8 control in C-pod serves to keep violent inmates from having physical contact with inmates who 9 may become victims.

10 As a general rule, inmates facing long term prison time upon conviction attempt to 11 work within the system to stay out of trouble and avoid conviction. However, inmates charged 12 with violent crimes are evaluated to determine whether they present a danger to others. If the 13 inmate does, he is generally housed in C-pod.

14 In example, T. I., an inmate during Inmate Spangler's stay in the jail, was charged with 15 aggravated murder and, if convicted, faced life imprisonment. T.I. was housed in C-pod
16 because he expressed the thought that he would injure someone, but while in C-pod, he spent 17 his time working on his pro se defense and did not cause a significant problem for jail staff or 18 other inmates.

19 Obviously, not every inmate follows jail rules. When an inmate violates a jail rule, 20 discipline is imposed progressively, which discipline may be grieved. Minor violations are 21 generally handled with a lockdown to the inmate's cell for a few hours. If violations persist, an 22 inmate may be locked down for a longer time or a loss of privileges such as commissary may 23 be imposed. If such lockdowns fail to stop the violations or if the inmate commits a major 24 violation, such as rioting, fighting, etc. disciplinary segregation may be imposed. Disciplinary 25 segregation is generally imposed by moving the inmate from general population to C-pod.
26

1 C-pod consists of ten cells, five on each of two levels, with a shower on each level.
2 Unlike the cell doors in the other men's pods, A, B, D, and E, the doors for the C-pod cells are 3 individually controlled by a deputy. This allows for the security needed to separate persons
4 who would be a danger to others and to segregate inmates sanctioned to disciplinary 5 segregation.

6 C-pod's security features also provide for the only area in the jail, other than isolation,
7 where jail staff can control access to the materials that are allowed for the use of pro se 8 inmates, such as pens, carbon paper, metal fittings, and hardbound books.

9 This level of security comes at a cost. Inmates are allowed out of their cells once a day
10 for an hour at a time. However, the hours are adjusted to accommodate the needs of pro se
11 inmates to conduct their telephone calls and legal interviews during normal working hours 12 whenever possible.

13 C-pod's open areas are cleaned daily by trustees selected from C-pod inmates. The 14 inmates in C-pod are allowed to use the cleaning materials and supplies to keep their cells 15 clean.

16 Because of the security and nature of inmates being housed there, C-pod is the least 17 densely populated pod in the jail. Generally, it is also one of the quieter areas in the jail.

18 The amount of noise in other areas of the jail varies with each pod. A, B, and E-pods are 19 used to house inmates who will fit into general population. They have televisions and generally 20 half of the inmate population is allowed out of their cells at one time. This sometimes leads to 21 confrontations and loud discussions. A, B, and E-pods are the noisiest pods.

22 Inmates who would be susceptible to assault because of the nature of their crimes, child
23 sexual assaults for example, are housed in D-pod. Although inmates in D-pod have a television, 24 the inmates in D-pod generally have similar issues and concerns. This tends to reduce 25 confrontations and disputes between inmates, again, making D-pod one of the quieter pods.
26

1 In C-pod, the lack of televisions and the fact that inmates are allowed out singly, by cell,
2 normally eliminates the noise associated by inmate confrontations. However, C-pod is also used
3 to house inmates with mental issues when they do not present a danger to themselves.

4 Occasionally, these inmates will yell or scream. I am aware that during 2012, one inmate
5 exhibited mental issues that caused him to yell for short periods of time. It has been my 6 experience that such yelling stops on its own or with corrections deputy intervention and seldom 7 lasts more than an hour. I'm not aware that any inmate ever presented a day long or repeated and 8 unrelenting disturbances. If that were to happen, the inmate would have been moved to Isolation 9 or Medical.

10 Inmates in C-pod may, but do not have to, yell to be heard by an inmate in a 11 neighboring cell.

12 A, B, C, D and E pods pods are used to house male inmates. Sanitary napkins are not 13 available through the jail commissary. No male inmate should ever have a sanitary napkin.
14 They are only given to female inmates on an as-needed basis. Female inmates do not have 15 access to the male pods or male inmates.

16 Generally, inmates transferred to C-pod to serve time on disciplinary segregation make 17 an effort to get off disciplinary segregation, avoid any or a further loss of good time, and get 18 back to general population where they have more privileges.

19 Inmate Spangler was an exception to this general rule. One, he frequently requested to 20 be housed in C-pod where he had fewer privileges – no television and less time out of his cell –
21 even when not on disciplinary segregation. Two, while in C-pod, he engaged in riot –
22 collective flooding of the cells and pods – and threatened and assaulted corrections deputies.
23 Inmate Spangler, who was short and slightly built, may have preferred to be housed in C-pod
24 because it is a small pond, which provided him with the opportunity to take advantage of other 25 inmates and instigate others to violate jail rules while avoiding inmate fights he could not win.
26

1 Despite the security measures in C-pod, Inmate Spangler frequently found ways to 2 fabricate weapons, threaten corrections deputies, harass other inmates, and assault jail staff.
3 Because of his behavior, Inmate Spangler was usually housed alone.

4 Another effect of Inmate Spangler's behavior was that, under the jail's progressive 5 discipline policy, he frequently served consecutive terms of disciplinary segregation. This was 6 a result of the major violations Inmate Spangler continued to commit while on disciplinary 7 segregation. Although disciplinary segregation could not exceed thirty days without approval
8 from the jail chief, Inmate Spangler's habit of violating jail rules while on disciplinary 9 segregation resulted in lengthy periods spend in C-pod.

10 The following summarizes Inmate Spangler's housing as reported in the Jail Log:

11 December 21, 2010 to January 22, 2011, (32 days) in general population.

12 January 22 to February 4, 2011, (13 days) in C-pod.

13 February 5 to 26, 2011, (21 days) in general population.

14 February 26 to March 25, 2011, (27 days) in C-pod or Isolation.

15 March 25 to April 8, 2011, (14 days) at Pioneer Center North (inpatient drug 16 treatment).

17 April 8 to May 3, 2011, (25 days) escape status.

18 May 3, 2011, returned to jail following arrest on bench warrant.

19 May 3 to May 11, 2011, (8 days) general population.

20 May 11 to June 14, 2011, (30 days) in C-pod, Isolation, Gray 9 (17 days).

21 June 14, 2011, released on personal recognizance.

22 July 23, 2011, returned to jail following arrest on bench warrant).

23 July 23 to August 3, 2011, (31 days) general population.

24 August 3 to September 1, 2011, (29 days) C-pod.

25 September 1, 2011, released on personal recognizance.
26

1 November 5, 2011, returned to jail following arrest on bench warrant).

2 November 5 to 18, 2011, (13 days) C-pod :

3 November 5, requested housing in C-pod.

4 November 10, granted pro se status by court.

5 November 18, 2011, released on personal recognizance.

6 January 10, 2012, returned to jail following arrest on bench warrant.

7 January 10 to 12, 2012, (2 days) general population.

8 January 12 to February 22, 2012, (41 days) C-pod: pro se status.

9 February 23 to March 28, 2012 (33 days) C-pod: disciplinary segregation

10 February 28: approximately five hours in Gray 13 to calm down following 11 assault.

12 March 28 to March 30, 2012 (2 days) C-pod: pro se status.

13 March 30 to April 2: Gray 13 for suicide watch.

14 April 2 to release: C-pod: disciplinary segregation.

15 April 18 to 20: Gray 11 and 9 following discovery of weapons in cell.

16 May 2 to 4: Gray 13 for discipline and suicide watch.

17 Between February 23, 2012 and May 4, 2012, when Inmate Spangler was sentenced 18 and transferred to the custody of the state Department of Corrections, Inmate Spangler was 19 disciplined nine times, resulting in nearly continuous placement on disciplinary segregation, 20 including one sanction of fifteen days and two sanctions of thirty days to disciplinary 21 segregation.

22 Few inmates have been involved in the number of violations or have accumulated the 23 amount of disciplinary sanctions that Inmate Spangler did during his stay at the jail. Fewer still 24 failed to learn from the discipline imposed and moved on to increasingly violent actions as 25 Inmate Spangler did.
26

1 On April 21, 2012, Inmate Spangler submitted a kite, a form used by the jail for 2 inmates to pose questions, file grievances, etc., with a question about the jail's policy for the 3 receipt of books and publications from outside sources. At the time, Inmate Spangler was on 4 disciplinary segregation and would not have been able to receive any outside books. Inmates
5 serving time on disciplinary segregation are only allowed a bible. Thus, Sgt. Randall, whose 6 handwriting appears on the kite that Inmate Spangler used for his request, correctly responded
7 to Inmate Spangler that any books he received would be placed with his property.

8 Sgt. Randall's response did not affect Inmate Spangler's access to legal materials
9 because he was also on pro se status at that time. Further, the jail never received any books or 10 magazines addressed to Inmate Spangler and, as a consequence, none were refused or placed in 11 his property.

12 Combination sink/toilets are provided in all of the cells except Gray 13. These are jail-13 standard toilets and it is very rare that they overflow because of poor maintenance or 14 uncleanliness. They almost always overflow because inmates fail to report failures or because 15 inmates purposefully plug the toilets. In both situations, an inmate would have to intentionally
16 and repeatedly flush the toilet to flood a cell or pod. To do this, inmates use the plugged toilets 17 because the flow from a toilet is significantly greater than the flow that can be obtained from 18 the faucets.

19 I am not aware that Spangler ever complained about a toilet failure.

20 Inmate Spangler is the type of inmate who will test jail authority to determine what he 21 could get away with. The discipline available to jail staff, basically disciplinary segregation,
22 did not dissuade Inmate Spangler, partly because while he was on pro se status, he was given 23 privileges that most inmates who had never committed a violation of jail rules or procedures
24 would not have received. This negated the effect of the disciplinary segregation that jail staff 25 could impose. Further, Inmate Spangler is of small stature and once claimed he was thinking of 26

1 suicide in an effort to be moved from general population. Thus, it appears that he preferred
2 being housed in C-pod where he could challenge authority knowing that the discipline would 3 not harm him and other inmates would not assault him.

4 While Inmate Spangler appears to have tolerated life in the county jail fairly well, he 5 expressed great concern about being sent to prison. In 2012, he expressed concern about facing 6 twelve years in prison. He tried to get the court to let him out on personal recognizance and to 7 get the prosecutor to approve a deal that would let him work for the drug task force. However,
8 these requests were denied because of his failures to appear; his escape from Pioneer Center
9 North, a secure drug treatment facility; and his apparent usage of drugs while on release from 10 pretrial custody. As a result, his conduct became increasingly violent the closer he got to being 11 convicted and sentenced.

12 For a long time, C-pod was Inmate Spangler's briar patch. Because he was a pro se 13 inmate, he enjoyed privileges that inmates who had never violated a jail rule or policy did not 14 have even though he was frequently on disciplinary segregation for major rule violations. This 15 ended after a jail-made shank was found in the mattress in his cell. The discovery of a weapon
16 coupled with Inmate Spangler's history of threats and assaults on jail staff necessitated a 17 change that supported the discipline and still allowed Inmate Spangler time to work on his 18 defense.

19 To reduce the threat to jail staff, Inmate Spangler's pro se materials and law library
20 resources were secured outside of his cell. Inmate Spangler was only allowed to access to them
21 after being escorted to an interview room in the booking area. The escort involved a strip 22 search before Inmate Spangler's return to his cell and his legal materials were made subject to 23 random searches for weapons and contraband in Inmate Spangler's presence.

24 Inmate Spangler's grievance on these new restrictions was denied on grounds that the 25 restrictions were necessary to maintain a secure and humane environment.
26

1 Inmate Spangler expressed that he was stressed and depressed by the prospect of 2 conviction. Due to his history of violence, a suicide attempt and claim, and the court's refusal
3 to grant Inmate Spangler a furlough, Inmate Spangler's plea to six felonies and one gross
4 misdemeanor on April 26, 2012, brought an abrupt end to Inmate Spangler's fun. From that 5 point, he faced an imminent prison sentence, removal from his family, and placement in a new 6 environment that he would be less likely to exert some control over. The stress erupted on May 7 2, 2012, after Inmate Spangler refused the search of his cell and escort and punched one deputy 8 after threatening to hit the first deputy entering his cell.

9 Staff determined that Inmate Spangler presented a risk of harm to himself and others
10 and moved him to Gray 13 where he could be safe and carefully observed.

11 Statistically, jail populations are at higher risk of suicide. The change in status, a lack of 12 freedom, heightened awareness of remorse, the influence of drugs, and the threat of prison are 13 some of the factors that make the risk greater. Jail staff never want to lose an inmate to suicide 14 and, as a result, have to be constantly aware of the risk or failing to protect inmates charged to 15 our care. Adding to staff concerns is the threat of litigation with the very uncomfortable
16 scrutiny that entails. I encourage staff to err on the side of caution whenever an inmate presents 17 a risk of suicide.

18 It is my belief that Inmate Spangler did present a risk of self harm as he neared 19 sentencing. This warranted housing in Gray 13, which lacks items that an inmate may use to 20 harm himself and is readily accessible by jail staff to provide the necessary observations.

21 In addition to A, B, C, D, and E pods, the jail maintains cells in an isolation area,
22 medical, and in the booking area. The three cells in the booking area are known as "gray" cells 23 because of the color of the door control buttons on the original main control board. For 24 example, the buttons for the booking area cells were gray, the buttons for the medical area
25 doors were red, and the buttons for the kitchen area doors were yellow. The gray cells are used 26

1 for the temporary detention of incoming prisoners, suicidal inmates, and inmates who present a
2 significant danger to themselves and others that cannot be addressed in C-pod or Isolation.

3 The booking area is staffed around the clock and is the home station for the corrections
4 deputies who are assigned to rover duty. This allows for frequent surveillance of inmates
5 housed in the gray cells and for a ready response should there be a need to assist an inmate.

6 The Booking area can be quite busy at times, but it is generally no noisier than a normal
7 office. Unlike the pods, there is no television noise or opportunity for inmate confrontations
8 and arguments. If there is any yelling, it is short-lived primarily because of the constant 9 presence of jail staff. After about 6 p.m. the activity in the booking area subsides. Fewer 10 inmates are being booked and the activity required to prepare inmates for transportation to 11 court is over. At night, the booking area is generally very quiet.

12 The gray cells, which are an integral part of the booking area and not open to the 13 weather, are kept at the same room temperature as the Booking Area. Normal office attire is 14 worn by staff. Coats, gloves, scarves, etc. are not needed.

15 Jail staff are required to inspect the Gray cells for sanitation before use. The interiors of 16 the gray cells are painted in gloss paint with off-white walls, a color that readily shows blood,
17 bile, vomit, feces, etc. and facilitates cleaning and inspection. The cell doors are heavy metal 18 with a small window with a solid wood shutter, which blocks light and muffles noises from the 19 booking area. The shutter is kept closed unless a deputy needs to view an inmate.

20 Inmate trustees generally take care of cleaning duties. Jail policy bars housing inmates in 21 an unsanitary cell. I have observed the gray cells during jail inspections and have never seen any 22 being maintained or used in an unsanitary condition. I am not aware that any inmate has ever 23 suffered injury or sickness because he or she was held in a gray cell.

24 Gray 9 and 11 are 6' 5" x 9' 6", one person cells with a combination toilet/sink and a 5' 25 7" x 20" bench that can be used as a bunk. Gray 13 is a 7' 6" by 9' 6" one-person cell, without 26

1 a bench or toilet. Gray 13 is primarily used for temporary emergency detentions and to house
 2 persons on suicide watch. The toilet in Gray 13 is a grated hole in the floor, which is flushed
 3 from outside the cell upon the inmate's request. Hygiene items are not usually allowed in Gray
 4 13, but are often provided when a suicidal inmate is escorted to the washroom or shower.

5 Each gray cell is lit by two 32 watt soft white florescent lights from 6 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.
 6 A single 15 watt "black" light is used to illuminate each cell through the night. The two white
 7 lights provide enough light to read and the black light provides the minimum amount of light
 8 needed for allow jail staff to look into the cell and see how and what an inmate is doing 9 without disturbing the inmate.

10 Unless contraindicated by safety issues, inmates in the gray cells are given a clean
 11 mattress and bedding. Garbage is collected from inmates being housed in a gray cell as needed
 12 and the cells are cleaned by trustees – or jail staff – when necessary, including after an inmate
 13 has been housed in a gray cell for anything other than a transient stay, such as a temporary hold 14 while awaiting booking. The cells are kept at normal room temperature and are not subject to 15 crowding, infestations or drafts. The adjacent booking area, where staff wear their usual
 16 uniforms, without the need for coats and gloves, is staffed around the clock, but the noise
 17 present in the area is similar to that of an office. During the night shift, it is relatively quiet.

18 Given the frequency of observations, jail staff are able to address immediate needs of 19 inmates being held in the gray cells. Thus, inmates are allowed out for showers, legal visits, 20 etc. and, if a cell becomes contaminated, staff can deal with it promptly.

PROBLEM

I have a history of migraines I was treated in prison for them. The 15 mg of ibuprofen doesn't work. I neither has the Cafazone pills. I used Street drugs to help with it. Could I please be seen to discuss options w/ a u.s.

Emergency care can be requested at any time by contacting a deputy. Non-emergency care is provided three times a week by a physician or a physicians assistant. There will be a minimum charge of ($5.00) five dollars for the use of the jail medical services. Prescriptions and out side referrals will be charged at the rate from the outside providers.

Bryce,

I am forwarding your requests back to medical as I have not seen any symptoms of mental illness to treat with medications in here. You are asking for something for sleep and to "calm down" - these are not psychiatric illnesses but maybe medical can help.

Response I am diagnosed

Bi polar manic depressive / Bipolar / ADHD

PTSD & Neurotic Anxiety by 3 different doctors

& possibly Schizophrenic.

I would like to give the contents of my confinement. And an denial of my pro se & habeas corpus. First I am housed in a holding cell with no bunk & I must sleep on the floor. I am subjected to the noise of people coming & going and the noise of the cell of the by & not made special housing. (hij) I violation of my 8th amendment Right to due & undisturbed. I want a better of the 14th amendment. This is a waste of time and money and no change as I want.

I am the 14th amendment regarding my 10th structure Right to due & I want to conduct my own business in my 14th amendment Right to due process & orders of the courts. Both United States

Approved (Aprobado)

Denied (Negado)

Reason (Razon)

Constitutional Rights are being effectively denied by the Jail & during the my pro se ordered pro se material & appeal to the material. These constitutional Rights cannot be abridged by the Jail. As they have been ruled on numerous decisions by the 9th US Supreme Court to be fundamental Rights of incarcerated inmates. I am also given none of my clean clothes or a set of night & dirty clothes - no soap or any hygiene.

2/20/12. J/m said he "is afraid he will stab a guard" and doesn't want to "get into trouble". J/m said he often thinks of being violent to the guards. 2/21/12
It is difficult to tell how much of this conversation is genuine vs wanting meds.
J/m is diagnosed with Antisocial Personality.
His symptoms he is reporting today fit
that diagnosis more than anything else.
Rec: Maybe Try Buspar if anything. a little Calmers
note: Discussed with Sgt Randall to watch behavior

March 24, 2012

I/M Spangler,

Due to recent incidents involving several weapons that were hidden within the belongings in your cell and your past noncompliance with jail rules, It has been determined that you present a risk to the staff, other inmates, security, and County property. As a result of your actions we have created a schedule, rules and expected behavior, allowing you access to your pro se material. Your responsibility is to comply with the regulations of the institution and directives of staff members. Some regulations may seem restrictive to you, however, they are necessary to maintain a secure and humane environment.

Your privileges will not be lost unless your behavior causes them to be. It is our belief that positive and responsible behavior should bring more free time and privileges. Irrational and negative behavior shall be dealt with by loss of privilege and free time.

Pro Se material access schedule

You will be granted access to your boxes of pro se material and resource material that have been supplied by the County Law Library during the following times:

Monday through Sunday from 1800 to 2145 (on space available bases)

Rules we expect to be followed

1. You will be place in waist and leg restraints and transported to an interview room in the booking area (on space available bases).
2. Restraints will remain; can be adjusted to allow adequate movement.
3. You will be given your boxes of pro se material and resources (Your boxes of pro se materials will be subject to search. Jail staff will not review your pro se materials other than to confirm that no item has been converted to a weapon).
4. You will be strip searched prior to your returned to C-pod.
5. Until further notice you will have NO BOOKS in your room (1 bible is allowed) and if discovered will be removed immediately.
6. You will only be allowed to have a pencil (at this time no pen's or highlighters, due to the security risk to the jail and staff).
7. You will be allowed to take notes and other paper back to your room in C-pod (these items will be searched).

Expected Behavior

It is our expectation that you will comply with our behavioral guidelines while you are in our facility, in general, our expectations are that you will:

1. Follow staff directives and requests.
2. Respect the property of the Skagit County jail and the property of others.
3. Maintain your sleeping area and surrounding common area in a clean, orderly and sanitary fashion.
4. Maintain daily personal hygiene habits.
5. Behave in a rational and adult manner.

Unacceptable behavior will result in being charged with a violation of in-house rules, and will fall into a MAJOR or MINOR violation category.

Sgt. Deanna Randall
Skagit County Jail

To: Bryce Spangler

Date: April 19, 2012

RE: Disciplinary action re: Possession of materials and property in your cell

Mr. Spangler,

Recently jail staff has confiscated several weapons, including sharpened instruments that were hidden within the belongings in your cell. Jail staff has also documented your threats to destroy law library resources provided by the County Law Library if jail personnel refuse to accede to your demands for commissary, female companionship from other pods within the jail, coffee, etc. and to use County Law Library books to block the opening mechanism of your cell door. Due to these incidents and your past noncompliance with jail rules, I have determined that you present an increased security risk to jail staff and property and that certain steps need to be taken immediately to reduce those risks.

Because (1) we have inadequate staff resources to search the material in your cell on a constant basis, (2) the presence of concealed weapons presents a great risk of harm to staff and other inmates, (3) you have used Law Library books to block the opening mechanism of your cell door, and (4) because of your documented threats to destroy county property, including limited and expensive law library resources that have been provided for your use, I am restricting your ability to possess pro se materials and Library resources in your cell.

During scheduled times that you are allowed out of your cell you will have access to your pro se materials and resource materials that have been supplied by the County Law Library. Your boxes of pro se materials will be subject to random search for the presence of weapons and contraband. Such searches will take place in your presence. During such searches, jail staff will not review your pro se materials other than to confirm that no item has been converted to a weapon and that no contraband is hidden within the boxes provided to contain your pro se materials.

If your behavior should improve and when staff determines that you no longer pose a risk to staff, other inmates, security, or County property, the privilege of having Law Library resources in your cell shall be returned to you.

You have the right to grieve this decision under applicable jail policy.

Ron Coakley

Correctional Sergeant

Skagit County Jail
